Please note:

World Renew cannot estimate government processing times or the expected arrival date of the refugee(s). At present, government processing times are lengthy due to the backlog created by the Government of Canada's cuts to immigration levels under the Private Sponsorship of Refugees Program, which determine how many privately sponsored refugees arrive in Canada each year. The time between submission of the application and the arrival of the refugee(s) will be up to five years, though this can vary widely between Canadian migration offices overseas.
